LOOKING AT US

IN MEMORIAM

DONNA NORTON

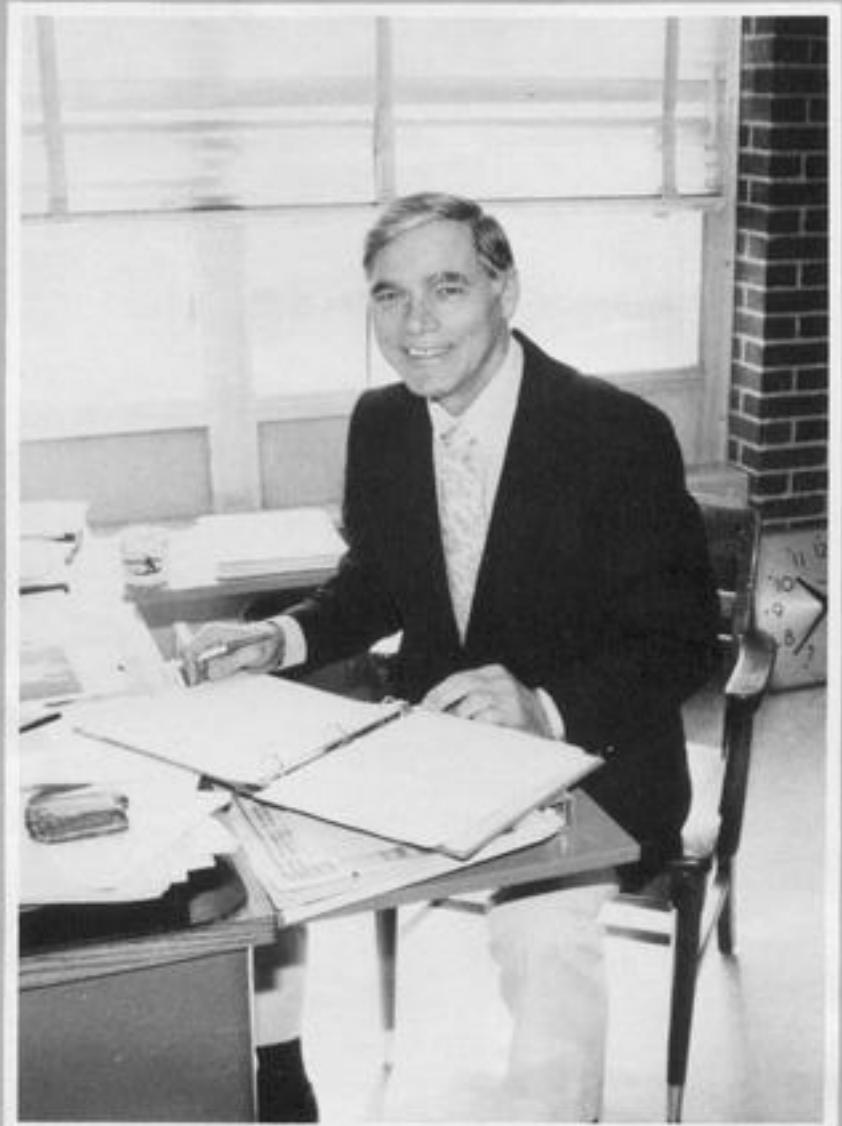

We, the eighth grade class of the Kennedy School, dedicate this yearbook to Donna Norton. Although she will not be going on to the high school with us, she will not be forgotten. She will be sadly missed.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Blanchard (Principal)

Mr. Qegan (Assistant Principal)

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

HORIZONS . . . PROVIDING NEW VIEWS AND POSSIBILITIES
FOR A FULLER, RICHER LIFE . . . LAYING GROUNDWORK FOR FUTURE EXPLORATION AND DEVELOPMENT . . .

Over the past several years, this has been the task of the Kennedy School. We have been exposing students to new ideas, skills, facts and fields. We are proud that we have been able to better equip our students to make the choices which will be necessary for their future. Enabling each individual to explore many new areas, to discover potential within themselves hitherto unknown, we have endeavored to educate the whole person in a total way.

Now, at the close of another school year, we look back at the past—at special activities during the 1979 - 1980 terms such as the Dukakis assembly, the survival seminars and the fine arts week. More important, however, we look out at the future, from picture windows which present the broadest possible horizons—additional education, rewarding use of ever-increasing leisure time, and eventual fulfilling careers. We are preparing students for a new era; they will need more information about their world. They will have to understand and perhaps participate in a greater variety of life styles. They will have to acquire the kind of education that will enable them to continually adapt and change in many ways. We at JFK believe that, having experienced the educational process which we have offered, our students will be better able to deal with that kind of world.

It is my personal desire for all our students (whether returning for further years with us or going on to high school studies) that their horizons may beckon brighter, and that they will face the coming years with more confidence because of what they have experienced here.
