CLASS WILL AND TESTAMENT

To Mr. Blackden, who likes to patrol Scally,
We leave you a long, dark alley.

To Mr. Goldblatt, who is a nice guy,
We leave you a brand new tie.

To Miss Webber, who has a lot of class,
We leave you a bathroom pass.

To Mr. Hayes, with his blue grammar books,
We leave you some dirty looks.

To Mr. Lawlor, who adds up the sum,
We leave you a bucket of gum.

To Mr. Caulfield, with his map,
We leave you less mishap.

To Mr. Lane, who bugs us all,
We leave you no more parents to call.

To Mr. White, who is no fool,
We leave you a class that's cool.

To Mr. Brennan, who's really great,
We leave you Sodium Phosphate.

To Mrs. Berrigan, and her spelling test,
We leave to you the very best.

To Mrs. Anderson, who loves to teach,
We leave to you a week-end at the beach.

To Mr. Good, whose class is a ball,
We leave to you "another brick in the wall."

To Mr. Colosi, who teaches English and History,
We leave you another unsolved mystery.

To Mrs. Duffy, whom we all like,
We leave to you a ten-speed bike.

To Mr. Wheeler, who must really care,
We leave to you a glass of water and two Bayer.

To Miss Cappuccio, whose cooking is wild,
We leave to you a jolly child.

To Ms. McQueeney, who's really nice,
We leave to you some sugar and spice.

CLASS WILL AND TESTAMENT

To Mrs. Wachsman, who is a buddy,
We leave you a quiet study.

To Mr. Roche, and his gym,
We leave you a team that will win.

To Mr. McCann, who works in the shop,
We leave you some soda-pop.

To Mr. Clark, who loves to pace,
We leave you a lot of space.

To Ms. Tivnan, who knows the difference between scissors and shears,
We leave you a life without worries and cares.

To Mr. Nolan, whose classes don't listen,
We leave you a successful mission.

To Ms. Murray, with her head of curls,
We leave to you sweet little girls.

To Mrs. Churchville and her new name,
We leave to you fortune and fame.

To Mrs. Kelly, the thermometer shaker,
We leave to you no more fakers.

To Ms. Olson, who's always in a tizzy,
We leave you a day that isn't busy.

To Mr. Fittante, who's always on the run,
We leave you nothing but fun.

To Mrs. Grant, our library aide,
We leave you dues that are paid.

To Mr. Tatro, the music man,
We leave you many fans.

To Mrs. Sullivan, who's such a trooper,
We leave to you Mr. Hooper.

To Mr. Corbett, who is quite able,
We leave you a perfect times table.

To Ms. Shiner, who is okay,
We leave you some extra pay.

CLASS WILL AND TESTAMENT

To Mrs. Zilonas, with all her books,
We leave ours to fill the nooks.

To Mrs. Wadlington, who on a pass signs her name,
We leave to you Great Dame.

To Mrs. Colson, who is so nice,
We leave to you a new bike.

To Mr. Connell, our science whiz,
We leave to you a passing quiz.

To Ms. Ross, with her helpful ways,
We leave you much better days.

To Mr. Williams, who loves to smile,
We leave you with all your style.

To Ms. Foley, a glamorous teacher,
We leave you a foreign-language feature.

To Ms. Browne, who must have silence,
We leave to you no great defiance.

To Ms. Alles, who is so perky,
We leave to you a student turkey.

To Mr. Hannigan, our Commander-In-Chief,
We leave to you a brand-new fleet.

To Mr. Rosa, whom we obviously like,
We leave you a softball, basketball and a ten-speed bike.

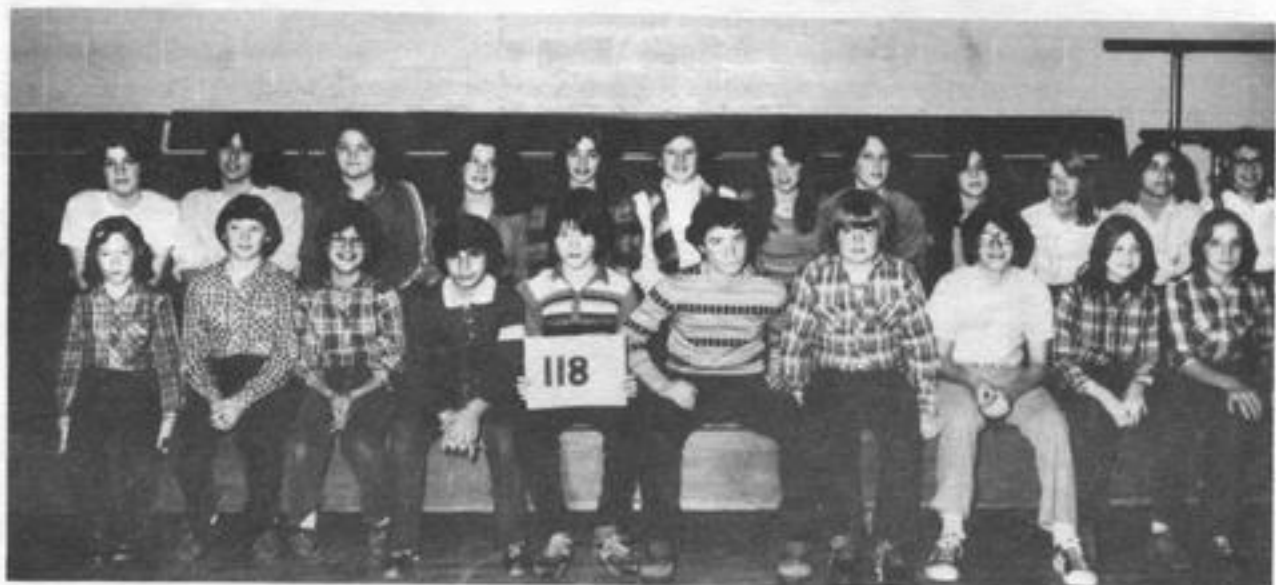

To Mr. O'Neil, who hates T.V.
We leave to you a book or three.

To Mrs. Kutasz, with her smock,
We leave you a new paint box.

To Ms. Casavant, who is a delight,
We leave you students who are bright.

To Mr. Swalnick, who is full of wit,
We leave to you some jeans that fit.
