As graduation approaches, I am sure you are filled with a sense of pride and anticipation. A sense of pride in the successful culmination of your high school experience. We and your parents share in that pride of accomplishment. A sense of anticipation because the unknown future presents a new and probably more demanding challenge.

My hope is that your education will help you to make better decisions about your life's goal. My prayer is that you have matured as individuals; able and willing to provide solutions to the problems that exist.

I congratulate each young adult in the Class of 1985. I wish for you Health, Happiness and the Courage to make this a better world.

Captains Log , Stardate 8506.25

Having just recieved the Yearbook of Admiral Stuart C. Schuenfeld, I decided to set my pen on 'write' and leave a message to him. My last six years in Starfleet Command have been truly fucked. Our experiences with Klingons, Romulans, and Hank Cort have really shown me what he is like.

J.A. DUNN He's strange. Unfit for Command. Sick. Stupid.
CONSTRUCTION COMPANY Unusual. Weird.

But still a hellum

Best wishes wherever
